

EV SECTOR May Soon Be Designated As PRIORITY LENDING SECTOR, Says Kartikey Hariyani

While it is crystal clear that several commercial electric vehicle original equipment manufacturers (EV OEMs) face difficulties getting financing options for end consumers, is the situation similar in the charge point operator space? More importantly, is the finance problem for EV OEMs also affecting the charge point operator (CPO) business? Kartikey Hariyani in a conversation with the MOVES team shed light on the evolving EV charger ecosystem in India.

He highlights that most CPOs, not just in India but globally, have yet to report profits. "In conclusion, while the 'chicken or egg' dilemma is often debated in the context of infrastructure and EV adoption, infrastructure must precede adoption. However, the speed at which this infrastructure is developed is paramount," he says. Interesting excerpts from the interaction...

KARTIKEY
HARIYANI
CEO OF CHARGE POINT
& TECO ENERGY

