

TOWARDS A DRIVERLESS FUTURE

How comfortable would you feel travelling in a driverless car? Would you like to try it or not? Does the driverless future reality excite you or scare you?

Until a decade ago, driverless cars were a fantasy. We would soar our imagination of a world without traffic jams where robotic cars drove us around in a Star Trek cosplay. Fortunately, for 'us,' supposedly the last car-owning generation, the future looks bright with General Motors announcing the first driverless car ready to hit the road by 2019.

With technology taking the front seat in our millennial lifestyle, it is difficult to segregate the tasks between human beings and humanoids. What
