

Incubation Centre IIT Patna (IC IITP) helps ESDM(Electronics System Design and Manufacturing) startups to overcome major challenges they face.

With its state of the art prototyping labs, tools for prototyping and fabrication have become accessible to startups more than ever before. Trained staff adds essential skills required for initial stages of prototyping.

The expert guidance on both technology and business helps startups to manage the issue of longer innovation cycle. Market study, optimize product definition and a fail-fast approach shorten their time to market – leading to not only cost savings, but also to a much refined product fit for the market.

IC IITP provides seed funding of upto Rs 10 Lakhs and connects the startup with various government agencies and departments like BIRAC for additional funding. Bionic Hope Pvt Ltd, a startup working on a functional prosthetic hand with a sense of touch, incubated at IC IITP has received additional funds of 43 lakhs from BIRAC.

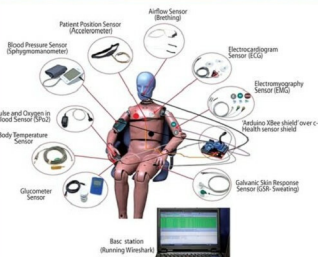

AtlaMedico TechSolutions, a startup incubated at IC IIT Patna develops accessible and reliable Remote Medicare services for critical patients. The product, when completed, will minimize the need for physical movement of the patient under critical care to a specialist hospital. This is achieved using Wearable Medical Devices (WMDs) that enables co-ordinated care under remote supervision of specialists in real time.

Techprolabz, another incubated company at IC IITP, was founded with a vision to make students more tech-savvy through innovative robotic learning kits and maker labs. The company is developing products for varied segments starting school children to engineering students. The team was selected to conduct workshop “Junior Innovation Challenge” Department of IT & e-governance, Govt. of Jharkhand.
