

Discover Moku:Lab

Eleven powerful instruments.
One flexible hardware platform.

Moku:Lab is a software-configurable hardware platform for test and measurement that combines the signal processing power of an FPGA with high-speed analog inputs and outputs. Moku:Lab brings a new level of flexibility to the lab, the field, and on the production line.

(Moku:Lab's Lock-in Amplifier interface pictured above)

Learn more at liquidinstruments.com