

THE DASHBOARD

Global Average Smartphone NAND Flash Capacity by iOS and Android

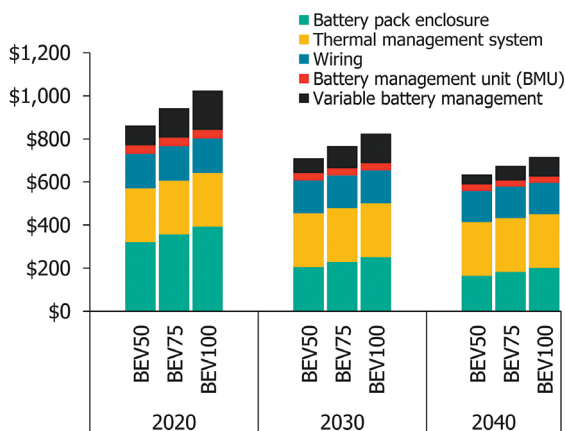

The average smartphone NAND flash capacity crossed the 100GB mark in 2020 for the first time. However, it differs in iOS and Android phones. In iOS phones, the average NAND capacity reached 140.9GB in Q4 2020, compared to 95.7GB in Android phones during the same period.

Source: Counterpoint Research

Battery Management Systems and Pack Enclosures can Influence Reduction in Costs of Battery Packs

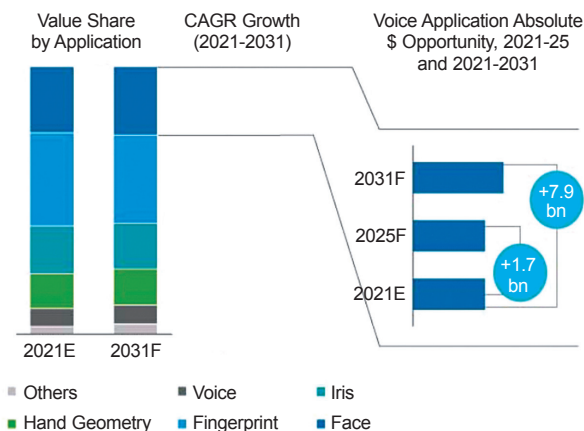

As OEMs optimise pack architecture and begin commercialising compact designs with a reduced number of modules and sensors, the associated BMS costs are expected to decrease.

Source: Lux Research Inc.

Global Contactless Biometrics Market by Application

The global contactless biometrics market is set to surge ahead at an impressive CAGR of around 16 percent from 2021 to 2031, with demand for iris recognition increasing at the fastest rate.

Source: FactMR (www.factmr.com)