AVIENTEK

logitech®

Bangalore-based Avientek India is a leading value-added distributor of audio-visual (AV) & unified communications. The company recently forged a distribution partnership with Swiss company Logitech, which designs hardware and software solutions for businesses and people. Avientek will distribute Logitech's various products and applications in India. The collaboration was met with unwavering optimism from both parties.

EFY got an opportunity to chat with Logitech's Head of India, Mr Anand Lakshmanan and Avientek's Country head, Mr Shrinivas Timmanagoudar and learn more about this new partnership, its intent, extent, and after-effects. Here's an excerpt:

Q. To begin with, would you like to describe your partnership with Avientek and how it benefits you?

Anand Lakshmanan. Avientek has been our existing partner, helping us distribute Logitech products in some of the emerging markets, including India. Because of the great work that they have been doing in India, and also the size and the importance that we attach with the country, we have decided to expand the footprint of Logitech-Avientek partnership in this region.

Customers who want to do business with Logitech are spread across the country and any amount of presence that we provide is always insufficient because of the opportunities that we see in the market. So, from that perspective, I think that Avientek's presence, coupled with its existing collaborations with companies like Microsoft, offers great potential for augmenting the businesses of both organisations. We are looking forward to a great partnership with them in India as well.

Q. How is Avientek expected to benefit from this partnership with Logitech?

Shrinivas Timmanagoudar. Since Avientek provides value-added distribution in the field of AV and UC, getting on board with Logitech provides us with the opportunity to address a lot of end-customer businesses. At the same time, since Logitech is a market leader, we expect good traction with the end customers and enhanced visibility in the market.

Also, as Logitech is a well-known and reliable brand, it gives us a chance to build confidence with the end customers. Moreover, we have got to increase our revenue and this partnership gives value addition to our partners, wherein apart from our own products, we're also selling Logitech products.

Q. What is the exact geographical parameter of this agreement?

AL. Avientek has a global presence but as far as this partnership is concerned, we are initially looking at India as a territory. Even though Avientek is already working with some of the other regions in Logitech. This particular partnership is all about providing us with coverage support in the territory of India.

Q. How do you envision Logitech contributing to your company's growth and success in the Indian market?

ST. Of course, it will help us to increase the revenue. At the same time, it will strengthen our position in the market. Earlier, we were covering at least 60-70% of the solutions for meeting conference rooms and personal workspace.
