

At-a-glance view of key industry trends that can shape the future of your business...

Chinese Companies Secure 45.3% Market Share In Automotive Displays

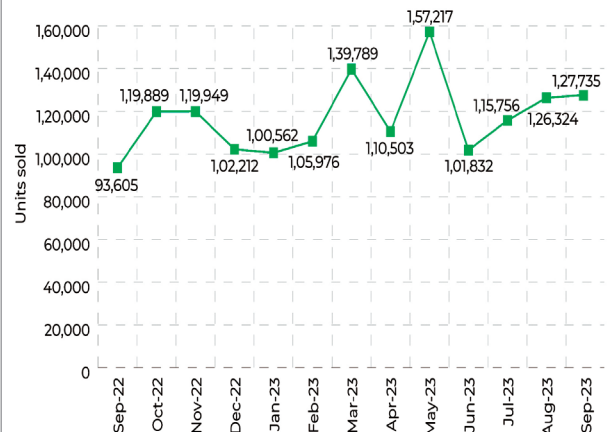

Chinese companies have emerged as dominant players in the automotive display market, securing a substantial 45.3% share in the first half of 2023. Chinese suppliers have also secured a majority share of 55.5% in the a-Si LCD (liquid crystal display) market and a 17.8% share in the OLED (organic light-emitting diode) market.

(Source: Omdia)

EV Sales Rise By 36% YoY In September 2023

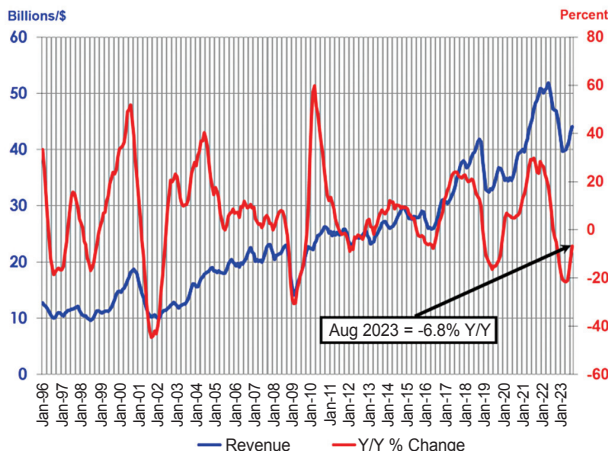

On a YoY basis, EV sales in September 2023 increased by 36% from that of EV sales in September 2022. The overall EV sales in September 2023 rose by approximately 1% from last month, reaching 127,735 units, driven by E-2Ws and passenger-type E-3Ws, which together accounted for 90.85% of total registrations.

(Source: JMK Research)

Global Chip Sales Increase To $44 Billion In August 2023

Global chip sales grew by 1.9% in August 2023 to $44 billion for the sixth consecutive month. However, YoY sales fell by 6.8% compared to August 2022. Month-to-month sales rose in the Americas (4.6%), China (2.0%), and Asia Pacific/All Other (1.2%), but fell in Japan (-0.4%) and Europe (-1.1%). YoY sales increased in Europe (3.5%) and the Americas (0.3%) but declined in Japan (-2.9%), Asia Pacific/All Other (-11.3%), and China (-12.6%).

(Source: www.semiconductors.org)

TSMC Leads Global Foundry Market Revenue Share With 57% in 2Q23

TSMC continued to lead the global semiconductor foundry market revenue share with 57% in Q2 2023. Samsung Foundry's revenue share fluctuated but slightly increased to 14% in Q2 2023. UMC, GlobalFoundries, and SMIC also showed variations in revenue share, but GlobalFoundries and SMIC experienced growth in Q2 2023. Other players collectively account for 9% of the revenue share.

*Samsung includes foundry service for its internal logic IC business

(Source: Counterpoint Research)