Electronics Industries Association of India (ELCINA) India Electronics and Semiconductor Association (IESA) and India Cellular and Electronics Association, among others.

Meanwhile, the state government is also planning to come out with an Electronics and Hardware Manufacturing Policy next month. The report says that for the state's ESDM firms and industry associations, the government will reimburse fifty per cent of the actual costs incurred (excluding travel expenses) in international marketing, sales promotion and participation in trade shows in Tamil Nadu Pavilion. This will be assessed on a case-to-case basis to promote the export of ESDM products and to build Tamil Nadu's brand equity.

Over 300,000 jobs to be generated in Telangana electronics manufacturing sector by 2023

K.T. Rama Rao, minister for industries and IT&C, Telangana, has said that over 300,000 jobs will be generated in the electronics manufacturing sector in the next four years.

Inaugurating Intel India's new design and engineering centre in Hyderabad, the minister also said that 30,000 employment opportunities have already been generated in the electronics manufacturing sector across the state.

He added that the state would like to build a complete ecosystem that not only attracts investments for software but also hardware manufacturing.

Government to finalise new national energy policy

R.P. Gupta, additional secretary of NITI Aayog, has said that the government is in the process of finalising a new national energy policy for the country. Gupta also said that the new policy will address the issues of accessibility and affordability as well as energy security, with a thrust on clean energy and the overall energy requirements of the country.

Highlighting the potential of energy storage in India, Gupta said that the focus will be on Make in India for cells used in EV batteries, along with demand creation and measures to incentivise investments. He added,
