

Online Learning: An Antidote To Uninterrupted Education Amidst Covid-19 Crisis

With the outbreak of novel coronavirus, many business sectors have been affected tremendously. The education sector is the latest area that has been affected by this prevailing situation. Most countries have shut down their universities, colleges, and schools

Dr Parteek Bhatia
is an Associate Professor at Department of Computer Science and Engineering, Thapar Institute of Engineering and Technology, Patiala

The outbreak of the deadly coronavirus has unleashed a global crisis. With an impact spanning over hundred countries, the virus is already impacting the global economy in a hard way. Uncertainty looms all over the world, and everyone is feeling the heat of this pandemic. To restrict the further spread of the virus, mass events or gatherings have been cancelled, lockdowns and travel restrictions